11. W8UM History Project: Amos Emerson Dolbear, "Inventor of wireless telegraphy" received both his Masters (1866) and Ph.D. (1877) from the University of Michigan. Dolbear sold his telegraph invention to Marconi and later lost his patent dispute, for the telephone, to Alexander G. Bell. Below is a writing from Dolbear to the University, where Dolbears says "… Among minor (or major) matters it may be well for me to state that I claim to be the inventor of the Magneto-Speaking Telephone. I certainly invented it, but the Patent Office has yet to determine whether Bell or myself had the invention first". Yours truly, A. E. Dolbear. Letter Dated January 15, 1879. John, KB8OIS

Jour. of Science, Amer. Jour. of Science, Scientific Amer.
the old "College Courant," N.E. Jour. of Education
& c. The last paper published is a tract of 15 pp.
on Researches on Telephony by the Amer. Acad. of Science — I shall send to you a copy.
Among minor (or major) matters it may be well for me to state that I claim to be the inventor of the Magneto-Speaking-telephone. I certainly invented it, but the Patent Office has yet to determine whether Bell or myself had the invention first.

Yours truly
A. E. Dolbear
