TEAM LEAVES FOR ANNUAL PENNSY GAME

Michigan Varsity Will Face Pennsylvania Without Having Had Scrimmage Since South Dakota Game.

TWENTY-THREE ATHLETES GO ON TRIP WITH FIRST TEAM.

List of Scrubs Who Will Go to Philadelphia Will Be Announced Tomorrow.

When the Michigan Varsity football team left last evening on its annual eastern invasion, it was without the benefit of a final workout on Ferry field. The incessant rain which fell all day yesterday prevented Yost from sending his Varsity men into action at all and there was not even a signal drill called.

Inasmuch as the lineup that faced South Dakota last Saturday and which is expected to start against Penn on Saturday next has not worked together in scrimmage drill at any time this week, Michigan faces the unusual situation of having to go into battle against the Quakers without having had scrimmage drill since the Coyote game. In other words the regulars will face Penn without having had any rough work for a week.

On Monday afternoon the work was light for the first team men and the eleven that was lined up against the reserves was composed mostly of second string players. Tuesday there were only four regulars used in the scrimmage. In fact the only practice that the regular lineup, the one Yost is expected to send against the Red and Blue Players, has had, has been in the line of stiff signal drills each evening.

It is expected, with this in view, that the work Yost will give his men during their two days' stay at Wayne, a suburb of Philadelphia, where the team is to be quartered until the morning of the big game, will not be the light tuning up work usual in such cases, but will consist of stiff drills that will put the Varsity on edge to face the Quakers.

Though Pennsylvania has been going poorly in all games so far, Michigan is not looking for a walk away game, though naturally the team will go in with the determination to win in the eighth meeting of the two big elevens representing the east and the west. Yost will spare no efforts to perfect his play for the big engagement and if the team goes in minus the proper amount of scrimmage drill, it is a sure bet that it will have this lack of rough work counterbalanced

RECEIVE ANSWER FROM WIRELESS

In receiving an answer by telegram to a wireless message sent by Dean M. E. Cooley of the engineering department to his son, Lieutenant Hollis Cooley, U. S. N. at Annapolis yesterday, all doubts as to the efficiency of the university wireless station were dispelled. The message of inquiry as to whether Lieutenant Cooley would be present at the Pennsylvania game was sent over 700 miles to the station at Washington, D. C., from which it was relayed to Annapolis.

Atlantic coast steamships have been communicated with on their way to Florida and South Carolina, and messages are frequently relayed by the local stations between ships on Lake Superior and Buffalo. Until recently the replies that have been received by the local station from points far distant were thought to be fictitious, but the positive proof of the feasibility of such long distance communication afforded by Dean Cooley's successful message leads the local operators to believe that the replies recently received from Key West, Florida, and from the far west are authentic.

Talks on Rubber Tire Manufacturing

Dr. A. A. Templeton, vice-president of the Morgan and Wright Co. of Detroit, delivered an address here yesterday on the subject, "Rubber and the Manufacture of Rubber Tires." He prophesied that in the course of a few years the price of rubber will drop from its price of $1.09 to about 30 cents a pound.

WILL PROVIDE MUSIC FOR THE CORNELL GAME

In Spite of Getting no Trip This Year, the Band Will Not Go On Strike But Will Play at Big Game.

BAND WILL HAVE TO DISSOLVE IF MONEY IS NOT PROVIDED

Members of Band Believe Association Should Provide for Their Welfare.

An impression has been gaining wide credence on the campus that the band would not appear on Ferry field to play during the Cornell game, because of the loss of the trip to Pennsylvania. Members of the band deny the rumor, and state that they will play at the Cornell game.

Although feeling disappointment that no trip was provided for them this year, they realize that the sentiment of the student body, as expressed by the referendum, is favorable to them and encourages their effort to preserve the organization for the present.

Members of the band agree with the universal opinion of the campus that if no means are taken to place the organization on a sound financial footing immediately, it is a certainty that the band will undergo dissolution.

"In virtue of the band playing at athletic functions which is its legitimate field, the athletic association should provide in some manner for the band's welfare," declared Manager Max Stanley, '13, speaking for the band. "While the band feels keen disappointment on not being sent to Pennsylvania this year, the first time in many years that it was not given a trip, it will provide music for the Cornell game.

"If we can be shown that there can be something definitely done in the way of proper maintenance for the band, and deserved recognition, such as an annual trip each year as an inducement for our efforts, we will feel that our work is meeting with appreciation.

"It is not mere conjecture that the university will lose its band if no provisions are made for its proper maintenance. The members of the band feel strongly that their organization will not be warranted if they do not receive support, and definite recognition."

UNION MEMBERS TO DINE TONIGHT

Dr. Angell's Speech and a Skit by the Mimes Will Be the Main Features.

SOME TICKETS STILL REMAIN.

Tickets for the second membership dinner of the present year at the Michigan Union are selling at a fairly lively rate, and it is expected that 200 men will greet President-Emeritus James B. Angell, the principal speaker at this evening's affair. Although Dr. Angell's subject has not been announced, it will doubtless be of especial interest to Michigan men.

Besides a program of speeches, a skit presented by the Mimes will be one of the features of the evening. It is understood that this stunt will be in the nature of a burlesque dealing with The Michigan Daily, and some realistic if not complimentary characterizations are promised.

The remaining tickets for the dinner are on sale at the desk, the price being as usual 40 cents. Dinner will be served at 6:00 o'clock.

ARMENIANS TO REORGANIZE THEIR MICHIGAN CHAPTER.

The Michigan chapter of the Armenian Students' association in America has been reorganized. The purpose of this organization is to bring the Michigan students into close connection with the general chapter, which has its headquarters in New York, and whose purpose is to encourage Armenian students to come to America instead of Europe.

The Armenian students here can get courses which will be of material help to their nation, and the fact that they can work their way through college further attracts their fellow countrymen to come to this country. Effort has been made to boost Michigan, and as a result, eight more students came to Michigan this year.

WOODROW WILSON WILL NOT SPEAK HERE FEBRUARY 22.

Woodrow Wilson will not appear here on Washington's birthday, as was expected, owing to the result of the election. "We do not know who will be the speaker for Washington's birthday as yet," said Dean Bates yesterday, "but it is certain that Mr. Wilson will be unable to come."

Dr. Angell Will Speak Before Women.

President-Emeritus James B. Angell and Asst. Prof. W. A. Frayer will speak at the Women's League party Friday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock on "The Trouble in the Balkans." After the address there will be dancing in the gymnasium until six. All league women are cordially invited to attend.

1,000 ROOTERS GIVE TEAM A BIG SEND-OFF

With Whitey Otis Leading Yells Many Rooters Stand in Rain and Give the Varsity Courage.

SHOOT PISTOLS AND CHEER AS TRAIN LEAVES STATION.

Only a Few Supporters Leave With Team but About Forty Have Bought Tickets.

With their ardor not a whit dampened by the inclemency of the weather, Michigan rooters 1,000 strong made their way through last evening's drizzle, down the hill to the little green and white frame building beside the Ann Arbor railroad tracks.

They had assembled to give their team a rousing send-off to the biggest game of the year, and not once did that primary purpose escape them as they jostled and pushed each other on the narrow station platform, and deployed their numbers over the rails.

From the eminence of a freight car roof, "Whitey" Otis, never more peppery, with coat and collar off, led the loyalists in cheer after cheer and song after song. Every member of the Varsity football squad was given nine rahs with his name tacked on the end. Many times the followers of "Whitey" yelled with the full capacity of their lungs for the team, Coach Yost and Captain Thomson.

The train pulled in a little after 7:30 o'clock, stopping only long enough to unload its local passengers, and take on board the chosen men of Yost. Amidst the crackling of revolvers, the now disorganized cheers, and goodwishes for the team, the engineer pulled open his throttle a notch, starting Michigan's team on its 24 hour's journey to Franklin field where the contest with Pennsy will take place.

Only a handful of supporters accompanied the team, but over forty have purchased their transportation to Philadelphia and will leave today.

Grad Obtains Government Position.

Henry S. Rawdon, '12E, left yesterday for Washington, D. C., where he has accepted an appointment in the government service. The position which is in the Bureau of Standards as metallographist is rarely obtained by a recent graduate. While in college, Mr. Rawdon was elected to both the Sigma Xi and Tau Beta Pi honorary fraternities.

Prof. Case to Lecture Tonight.

Prof. E. C. Case of the geological department will give a lecture this evening at 7:00 o'clock in the Russell seminary room of the museum. His subject will be the "Permian and Triasic Red Beds of Texas, Oklahoma, and New Mexico." Last summer Prof. Case traveled through that part of the country for the Carnegie Institute and discovered a bed of animal bones 25 million years old. The public is cordially invited to attend.

SENIORS MAY BE ADVISORS FOR FRESHMEN

Pres. Hutchins and Dean Effinger are Strongly in Favor of Plan Similar to That at Yale and Harvard.

MATTER TO BE DISCUSSED AT FACULTY MEETING SOON

About 200 Men and 100 Women Will Be Needed to Carry Out Plan.

In the future, members of the senior literary class will act in conjunction with the university faculty as an advisory board for freshmen students if the plans now being outlined by the advisory committee mature.

At the faculty meeting Monday evening, the proposal for such a system was made by the committeemen, Professors C. O. Davis and M. P. Tilley, but on account of the small attendance the matter was carried over until the next meeting which will probably be held within the next week. Pres. Hutchins, Dean Effinger, and many prominent faculty members are strongly in favor of the new plan and several seniors have already expressed their willingness to serve.

The proposed plan is similar to that now in use at Harvard, Yale and Leland Stanford where it is said to be highly successful. Before the close of each college year, all juniors who care to assist in the work send in their names to the committee in charge and the following fall three or four freshmen are assigned to each man. About 200 men and 100 women from the senior class would be needed for the work here.

As the freshmen enroll they are assigned to their student advisors and requested to see them within a day or two. It is found that seniors are in a much better position to inform first year men about college traditions, customs and minor matters than are faculty members. It is also thought that proper advice from upperclassmen at the opening of college would do much toward preventing hazing.

If the proposition meets with the approval of the faculty at its next meeting, it will probably be tried out on a small scale this year and if successful will be launched in earnest next fall.

WOMEN WAIT FOR TICKETS IN RAIN

The weather man either forgot his etiquette yesterday or desired to initiate the women of the university into the ranks of equal rights which they were given by the voters Tuesday. All day the porch of the athletic office was crowded to its full capacity with feminine devotees of football trying to escape the drizzling rain which kept up all day. Regardless of the danger of spoiling hats, over 600 women secured seats for the Cornell game.

The faculty members holding athletic books also received their allotment of pasteboards yesterday. About 65 left the allurement of class room and laboratory to share the fate of the women in waiting in the rain. Today the second year men will be supplied while the youngsters of the university will be accommodated tomorrow.
