WOLVERINE WARRIORS RETRIEVE SEASON'S RECORD BY TRIUMPHING OVER CORNELL--20-7

Whirlwind Finish of Maize and Blue Revenges for Defeat by "Big Red" Team Last Year and Seasons Ago.

TWO PERFECT FORWARD PASSES BRING VICTORY TO MICHIGAN.

Pontius and Torbet Responsible for Two Touchdowns, Huebel Runs 60 yds. for the Other.

A retrieved season's record.

This is what the whirlwind finish of the Wolverines means to Michigan.

Sweet revenge tor the Cornell defeat of last year and of seasons long ago.

This, also, is what the eleventh hour triumph of the Maize and Blue over the Red and White makes possible for Michigan, Michigan men, and Michigan's football team.

It was a grand little exhibition of fighting spirit that the men of Yost uncorked in the last half of the final quarter yesterday. It was a glorious exhibition of true Michigan spirit that enabled the Michigan team to turn a tie, and even a possible Cornell victory, into what was distinctly and emphatically a Michigan triumph. Michigan triumphed over her eastern rivals and she did so by a 20 to 7 margin that is undisputable.

It was luck that figured in the Michigan victory, and it was not luck that lay back of the Cornell score. Rather was the victory a true measure of the strength of the teams, and if anything the measure was short on the Michigan end. The three touchdowns that Michigan made were three touchdowns that were entirely earned. The one touchdown of the Ithacans was one touchdown that was honestly earned. Perhaps breaks of luck controlled certain specific plays, but they did not control the general result of the battle. It was decided on merit.

Wolverines Score Early.

Michigan scored her first touchdown in exactly five minutes of play. She took the ball on the kickoff, punted to Cornell, received a return kick, and then marched the leather to the Cornell 35 yard line. At this point, Michigan's first forward pass of the day was unbottled. Torbet took the leather on a pass from Craig and shot it 25 yards over the heads of the puzzled Cornellians. When Pontius gathered it in he was at least three yards distant from an opponent and he tripped merrily across the chalk mark for the first score of the day. The play was perfectly conceived and perfectly executed. Michigan deserved a touchdown on it.

But after the Michigan touchdown, Cornell bruced. She showed Michigan that the advance reports of a return to form, of a real "comeback" were true. At no time during the remainder of the first period was the goal line of the "Big Red" team in danger.

Cornell Crosses Line In Second.

When the second quarter opened the ball was in Michigan's possession in mid-field. Soon Cornell took the oval and began a systematic advance into Michigan territory. Cornell had the wind with her in this quarter and Butler's punts gained over Thomson's returns. This fact together with use of the forward pass and some excellent cross-bucks by Taber, put the ball in Michigan's territory toward the very end of the quarter. Here occurred the only mar of the day in Michigan's playing. Michigan had possession of the ball and when Craig fumbled on the thirty yard line in attempting to get away on a fake play, Cornell recovered. But even this did not hand a touchdown to Cornell. She earned it from the 30 yard chalk mark.

Taber and Butler advanced the leather some ten yards on line-bucks. Then a forward pass Butler to O'Hearn carried the leather to within three yards of the Wolverine line stripe. It took Butler and Taber two attempts to carry the leather over, but Taber accomplished the feat on an end run, just as time was called. Butler added the goal and the first half ended with the tally tied.

This was the status of the situation at the end of the first half. The third quarter failed to change matters at least from the scoring standpoint. As a matter of fact Cornell forced most of the play into Michigan territory. Michigan still being handicapped by having to kick against the wind. But Michigan fought gamely and though Cornell looked threatening, particularly when he executed forward passes, the red-clad players were prevented from even an approach to a score.

The final and all-important period of the game opened with the outlook not much changed. For five minutes it appeared that Michigan would be obliged to abide by a 7 to 7 tie. And then things happened and they happened in a fashion that bore the earmarks of one Mr. Yost, backed up by true spirit of Michigan men.

Victory Comes In Fourth Quarter.

The ball was in the center of the field. Michigan used the forward pass formation on the double pass play for an end run. Craig tore off 25 yards before the surprised Ithacans could down him. Thomson tried a buck which failed, and then occurred an exact replica of the play on which Michigan gained her first score save that it was more complicated in its inception. The play started like a criss

Coach Yost when talked to after the game said: "The game showed that the team could come back and fight the whole way through and making touchdowns when they were needed in the fourth quarter was the result. Michigan should feel better this evening than they have for some time past over her victory over Cornell because, since Penn defeated Carlisle today and Harvard was able to score but three points on Dartmouth, it shows that we are in a class with the rest. Especially so since the Cornell lineup today was stronger than it was when they played Dartmouth."

"Bottles" Thomson said: "We played today like we should have played all season."

Coach Sharpe said: "We were not outplayed at any stage of the game and I am satisfied with the showing of the team. Michigan deserves credit for the forward passes and the luck broke in her favor too."

Referee Hackett said: "Referees are unable to give any criticisms on games because crowd is most interested in, but it was the fastest game that I have seen played under the new rules."

Union Entertains 500 Grads.

Yesterday was "Alumni Day" at the Michigan Union. Fully 500 alumni, guests and members of the union were entertained during the day. The large banquet hall was thrown open for use as dining room and was crowded during the entire day. The Union will remain open for visitors today.

DAILY WILL BE SENT TO STATE HIGH SCHOOLS

Board of Regents Pass Appropriation to Send Sunday Morning Issue of Paper for Rest of Year.

ABOUT 250 SCHOOLS TO RECEIVE PAPER GRATIS

Will Acquaint Pupils With Opportunities of University of Michigan.

By virtue of an appropriation passed by the board of regents at its meeting Friday, the Sunday morning issues of The Michigan Daily will be sent out to the state high schools throughout the remainder of the year gratis. The action has been pending for some time, the management of the paper anticipating it to the extent of adding 215 high schools to the mailing list for the issue of last Sunday. The total number of schools that will receive the paper will approximate 350 within the state, with a possibility of sending to schools outside the state.

With a view of getting the various high school student bodies throughout the state better acquainted with the opportunities offered at Michigan, a number of special issues, devoted to the various departments of the university and eight pages in volume, will be put out at intervals. The first of these feature editions will appear early in December.

A private contribution two years ago resulted in The Daily being sent to 160 selected high schools but this is the first time the regents have given recognition to the paper as an advertising medium, and the first time all the schools have been reached.

Soph Lits Have Smoker Thursday.

The first soph lit smoker will be held at the Michigan Union, Thursday, at 7:30 o'clock.

TODAY'S UNION PROGRAM GIVEN OVER TO ALUMNI.

Michigan's alumni will again have the bounds of the Michigan Union this afternoon at the regular afternoon program. Prominent representatives of that body have been invited to attend the entertainment and give short talks to the undergraduates. All alumni have a special invitation from the Union management to be present at the program.

Kenneth Westerman will render several vocal selections for the guests. The usual 'smokes,' cider and cookies will be served as refreshments.

BIG GAME DRAWS MANY OLD GRADS

Interest attaching to the big game drew the old grads and former Michigan men back in full force. Among those whose faces were seen about the campus yesterday were the following men whose names will be recalled by most of the present student body:

Ralph Craig, '11, Joe Horner, '11, C. G Spice, '11, E. E. Hanavan, '12, Bill Restrick, '12, Fred Lawton, '11, Geo. McCormick, '12, Pip Titus, '11, Frankie Rowell, '10E, W. P. CONSIDER DEAN VAUGHAN FOR NEW CABINET

May be Placed at Head of National Department of Health and Sanitation to be Established.

IS NATIONALLY FAMOUS FOR WORK IN MEDICAL CIRCLES.

Was on Commission for Study of Typhoid During Spanish War Drew World's Attention.

Dean Victor C. Vaughan of the medical department is the latest possibility for a place in President-elect Wilson's cabinet. Rumors, that seem to have some definite foundation, have been circulating that Michigan's dean will be placed at the head of the national department of health and sanitation, which seems likely to be formed within a short period after President-elect Wilson's inauguration.

The movement for the establishment of a national health and sanitation bureau has been recommended by many of the state boards and a well-directed agitation has been carried on for several years looking towards its establishment, by several powerful magazines. President-elect Wilson has shown an unusual degree of interest in the proposal and it is generally felt that he will use all his influence to further the scheme.

Dean Vaughan refused to make any statement regarding the probability of his appointment except to deny that he has received any offer as yet. His name, however, has been closely connected with the proposed bureau for several months because of his national reputation in medical circles. His work on the advisory board of the National Public Health Society and as president of the Association of American Physicians and on the commission that studied the typhoid epidemic during the Spanish American war, drew the attention of the entire medical world to him. Dean Vaughan is a member of the American Philosophical Society and the French Society of Hygiene and holds the honorary degrees of Doctor of Science from the University of Western Pennsylvania and of LL.D. from the University of Michigan.

Add Four Names to Union Life Roll.

Four new names were added to the Michigan Union life membership roll yesterday by visiting alumni. Dr. A. P. Culbertson, '00M, H. H. Connell, '11E, H. R. Sears, '12E, and Harry Pohl, '12, were the men who took out the certificates.

The Union membership now stands at 2,285, with an increase yesterday of seven new members on the yearly membership list.

WOLVERINE WARRIORS TRIUMPH OVER CORNELL; SCORE 29—7.

cross, but Torbet, who received the ball, passed instead of running. Pontius was on the job, and this time he was obliged to go up in the air after the oval which settled in into his arms directly over the goal line. He was tackled in his tracks, and Michigan was forced to try a punt out which for about the first time this season failed, and Michigan was deprived of a chance for goal.

But with the game apparently tucked away, Michigan took no chances. Hughitt, Michigan quarterback, focused the time rays upon himself, when with but three minutes left to play, he crashed Butler's punt on his own 40 yard line, and aided by an excellent blocking of his team mates, carried the leather straight down the field for one more touchdown, Conlon failing. Patterson goals after this third touchdown.

Pontius and Torbet Star.

In regard to the individual playing of the men, there is one thing on which Michigan is to be congratulated. This is the fact that Yost chose to use Pontius at right end. The big fellow completed the two forward passes that meant Michigan scores, and in this alone, deserves commendation in the highest degree. Next in order comes Torbet. Torbet launched the forward passes on both successful occasions. But like Pontius he played an excellent game in the other departments as well. Thomson and Craig deserve praise for their line bucking and end running. Together with Collette, who replaced Craig for the third quarter, they were the mainstays of the Wolverine offense. Huebel deserves no end of praise for his individual work.

So much for Michigan ends and backfield. On the line, however, were men who play stellar ball. Not one of them can be slighted. Paterson, Quinn, Allmendinger, Cole and Musser were on their toes every minute. Raynsford who replaced Allmendinger when he was taken out for what was probably the first time in his football career, played a star game. They all did.

For Cornell, Taber, was the most reliable advancer of the ball. Though he did not play the full time, as he replaced O'Connor who started the contest, he was Cornell's most consistent player. Captain Butler proved himself well worthy of team leadership, while halfback Bennett proved himself worthy of being Taber's running mate. The work of Eyrich and O'Hearn deserves favorable mention.

The game was clean throughout and happily free from much penalizing.

PEP BREAKS LOOSE WITH GREAT FORCE

Long Looked for Celebration Causes Students to go Wild After the Victory.

MAKE SOUVENIRS OF EAST GOAL.

The game had scarcely finished yesterday when the celebration for which students have waited these many weeks broke loose, and a great crowd swarmed over Ferry field and massed about the goal posts. Bunting was ripped off and torn to shreds and, in the crash the cross bar of the east goal was broken and the entire post was torn out of the ground. With these emblems of triumph, the joyous procession marched up State street, numerous joining in a wild, hilarious snake dance instead, the crowd surged up and down in front of the campus for fully an hour.

Several students, of a shifty turn of mind, secured rakes and shopping splinters off the sacred goal post which had figured to all the scoring of the day, they disposed of them for small sums in the realm and pocketed the proceeds.

Early in the evening the crowds started down town and the streets were jammed until a late hour. It was not, however, as large a crowd as has been noted at previous celebrations, and there was a marked absence of students, the majority being mere onlookers. A bonfire was built on Liberty street, near Main, and kept going for two hours in spite of the efforts of the police to prevent it. The feeling was general that the usual big bonfire was the main thing missing. The police encountered no serious trouble, and allowed the exuberance to run its course. A great volume of noise was created, considering the size of the crowd, and many revolvers were in evidence.

All of the Ann Arbor police were on duty and 15 special policemen as well, to prevent the crowd from becoming too boisterous, but no cause was reported where they had to interfere.

VICTORY IS TOLD BY AIR WAVELETS

Not only Ann Arbor atmosphere vibrated last night with effects of Michigan's victory but even as far as Panama the air was set in motion, and little vibrating wavelets told the story of Michigan's victory via wireless. At 5:00 o'clock yesterday the operator in the university wireless station got busy and by 9:00 o'clock short accounts of the Michigan-Cornell battle not only had been sent, but had been received at Panama, Key West, Cape Hatteras, Baltimore, Washington, New York, Boston navy yards, and at various places on the great lakes as well as many points at shorter distances.

In most cases no relays were employed, and according to answers all reports were satisfactorily received. Most of the messages were sent as experiments except that to Washington, from whence a special report was relayed to Annapolis for Lieut. Hollis M. Cooley, U. S. N., son of Dean Mortimer E. Cooley, of the engineering department.

SMOKER TICKETS HAVE SLOW SALE

But 700 tickets have been disposed of so far for the annual Michigan Union smoker to be held on Tuesday evening in the gymnasiums. However, in view of the fact that an unusual opportunity will be given at the smoker to celebrate the Cornell victory, it is likely that a heavy sale will result today and tomorrow. The supply has been limited to 2,500 and tickets are on sale at the Union desk.

The university band, with a complete repertoire of Michigan songs, new and old, will be present to assist the cheer leaders to arouse student enthusiasm. Representatives from the alumni, the faculty and student body have already been selected to speak and the complete list will be announced on Tuesday morning.

BLOCK "M" WAS SUCCESSFUL

Big Letter Showed up Better Than in Previous Years.

The most successful block "M" ever tried was flashed on Ferry field yesterday. Those sitting on the south stands who have seen the feature in previous years, say that the big letter showed up better than ever before. The success was largely due to the darker shade of blue which set the yellow "M" out in bold relief. Visitors who have seen big games in other universities declare that yesterday's "M" far surpasses anything they have ever seen in this line.
