CARD SYSTEM WILL GROUP ACTIVITIES

Faculty Will be Able to Keep Record of Outside Activities Accurately and Without Loss of Time

PRESENT SYSTEM INDEFINITE.

Cards Have Been Issued and Sent to All Campus Societies and Clubs.

That the university authorities may have a record of the various members of the different campus organizations, the committee on non-athletic organizations has issued cards which are to be filled out by the undergraduates. These cards are arranged with the spaces for the student's name, address, class, and also for a list of the organizations that he is an active member of. All of the campus societies, fraternities, and sororities have been supplied with the cards and the committee is anxious that they be filled out and returned to Prof. John R. Effinger who has the immediate charge of them.

This innovation came as the result of a desire, on the part of the faculty, to have a better record of the personnel of the various organizations than could be secured in any of the present campus publications. While the list of members of the various societies is published in the Michiganensian and also in the Students' Directory, one has never been arranged according to names of the members. A man might belong to several societies and be listed under each one, but his record could not be secured under his own name. On this account, the Senate Council authorized the issuance of the cards at its December meeting.

According to Prof. Effinger, there is no motive in the establishment of this system at the present time other than that of obtaining a record for reference purposes.

"I feel that this card catalogue will prove most useful both to students and faculty," said Prof. Effinger. "It will enable us to keep a complete record of the outside activities that each student is participating in, and it should prove useful in editing any publications that require lists of undergraduates and their respective societies."

ADVERTISING IS DISCUSSED BEFORE COMMERCE CLUB.

"There are not enough college trained men to fill the demands of present day business," said Mr. J. B. Brownell, of the Detroit branch of the J. Walter Thompson Advertising Co., in his address before the members of the Commerce club at the Union last night. College men are particularly needed by the railroads and newspapers, and the demand is always far above the supply."

Mr. Brownell's address was mainly devoted to advertising, and about forty members of the club were present at the smoker. President Hanavan presided. Norman Wittet, '11, president of the club last year, was present at the meeting.

SPELLING PAMPHLETS ARE READY FOR DISTRIBUTION.

At the request of the Simplified Spelling Board, Prof. Meader of the Latin department has placed in Registrar Hall's office copies of four of the bureau's pamphlets for distribution. Professor George Hempel, '79, and Prof. Calvin Thomas, '74, formerly of this university, and now of Columbia and Leland Stanford respectively, are prominent members of the board.

President Taft was present at a recent fire in the Old South Middle dormitory at Yale.

DELAMARRE ADDRESSES CERCLE.

Prominent Frenchman Lectures Before Local Society on "The Serial Novel."

M. Louis Delamarre, present active secretary of the Alliance Francaise of America entertained the Cercle Francais at Sarah Caswell Angell Hall, with a lecture on "The Serial Novel" last night. Tracing the history of the development of the novel in its broader sense, he dewelt especialy upon the humorous aspect of the subject, illustrating how pages are covered with the useless and unsustaining, while the novelists reap revenues from the publishers at one frank, fifty per line. On the whole his impression of the serial was not the most flattering to publishers of "the continued in our next."

For those who appreciate the full pleasure of hearing French spoken in its purest and most beautiful accent. M. Delamarre was a decided treat. A gentleman of education, his enunciation of his tongue was a source of unbounded gratification to his hearers last evening.

Speaking of the local Cercle Francais, he said:"Out of the seventy chapters of the Alliance which are scattered throughout this country, there is none which evinces so much enthusiasm and does as much in the way of atcivity as the Cercle of the University of Michigan.

THOMPSON-HALLY ORDINANCE SUFFERS DECISIVE DEFEAT.

Franchise Which Caused Bitter Fight in Detroit is Turned Down at the Polls.

(Special to the Michigan Daily.)

According to the latest reports available last night, the Thompson-Hally Ordinance, over which a fight has been waged in Detroit ever since its proposal, was defeated at the polls yesterday. Complete returns from 150 out of 155 precincts show that 22,977 citizens voted "Yes," and 29,464 voted "No." This ordinance which amounted practically to a franchise, and which provided for three cent fares, certain extensions of track mileage in city streets, and gave the city the right to purchase the street railway system, required 60 per cent. of all the votes cast to pass. It received a little over 40 per cent. and hence failed.

PROF. WENLEY SPEAKS ON "THE UNCHURCHED WOMAN."

"It is woman's part in the world to uphold the higher virtues, and it is man's opportunity to worship in his lifetime two or three women," said Prof. R. M. Wenley in an address on "The Unchurched Woman," at Newberry hall yesterday afternoon.

"It is a question whether our civilization will stand the test of this era of easy-going philosophy. The church may be vanal and narrow, but it is better to have a firm moral support than the easy acquiescence of the present generation of young people."

CAMPUS WON'T HEAR EXTENSION LECTURES

Regents, Grant Provides Only For Outside Lectures, and Demands are Heavy

LECTURE SCHEDULE IS READY.

It is highly improbable that a course of lectures will be given for the benefit of the student body under the auspices of the Extension bureau, this year. The grant of the Regents provided only for lectures to be given outside the University, and it is a matter which would have to come up before the Board before any action could be taken. At present the demands for lecturers are coming in so fast that the bureau has all the business it can well attend to. The office force is taxed to the utmost to arrange for the different dates and men requested. Half a hundred lectures have been definitely scheduled throughout the state since. January 10, when a list of the 26 then arranged for, was published in these columns.

The names of the lecturers engaged, their subjects, and the places where the lectures are to be given, follow:

REFERENDUM PLAN IS TURNED DOWN

Student Council Decided That Signers Were too Few for Favorable Action

WEEKS GIVEN FLAG HE CAPTURED

After a thorough discussion of the petition addressed to the Student Council and advocating the adoption of a campus referendum, that organization at its meeting last night voted to lay the matter on the table for the present at least. It was unanimously felt by the members of the Council that in its present form the petition was too vague and indefinite and possessed too few signers to demand serious attention.

H. F. Weeks, '14 E, appeared before the Council in order that he might be presented with the banner which he captured in the underclass flag rush last fall. This is the first time that such a presentation has been made, and it is hoped that the same will develop into an annual custom.

The names of the other two men who captured flags could not be ascertained.

Elections of officers for the Council for the rest of the year will take place the first Tuesday night of next semester.

Its party dress will be of light blue stock decked with ink of a deeper blue. The edition is to be limited to 1,200 and orders for extra copies should be in early if last year's remarkable sale is to be taken as a criterion.

The issue will contain complete accounts of the function in whose honor it is planned, the list of guests and chaperones, and the order of events for the aftermath. Because of the fact that the majority of the regular student body will be out of the city, the regular subscription routes will not be covered and the edition will be handled by sale only.

OPINION OF STUDENTS IS FOR INFIRMARY

Prevailing View According to Interviews With Representative Undergraduates, is That Monument is Good One

NO OPPOSITION CAN BE FOUND.

"More Than Passive Approval on Part of Students Will be Needed to Carry Plan Through."

If the combined opinions of faculty members, local physicians, and students can be taken as a tenable indication, a student infirmary will be a reality before many months. The plan, as promulgated in the Daily, has yet to find an active opponent, and it now seems only a matter of getting the subject before the authorities for action.

Although a fully equipped and independent infirmary would probably prove too costly to be erected at once, it is generally hoped that a special ward for students can soon be opened in connection with one of the university hospitals. Such an arrangement, it is thought, will prove a satisfactory expedient until such time as sentiment can be sufficiently aroused to warrant the erection of an isolated infirmary building.

"The establishment of a hospital for students would be an excellent plan," said F. M. Loomis, president of the senior medic class, last evening. "Such an infirmary, however, ought to be conducted in connection with one of the present hospitals, as it would be impracticable to maintain a second staff of specialists like those who now tend patients in the regular hospitals. A university physician might be appointed to look after outside cases among students, but the active treatment in the infirmary could best be administered by the regular corps of doctors."

"Yes, I'm heartily in favor of the infirmary idea," said "Matt" Blish, '11 E. "There is no douht but what you have the support of every student in your agitation for the establishment of such an institution."

Charles A. Bowman, '11-'13 L, also expressed himself as strongly approving the plan for opening a student infirmary. "It is something we have needed for a long time," said Bowman last evening. "At present many students don't know where to go when they are slightly ill, and epidemics of contagious diseases spring up merely through neglect."

"I haven't given the infirmary matter much thought," stated Capt. Inman Sealby. "However, it would seem that such an institution were almost a necessity."

"A fine hunch," was the way Earle Good, '12, expressed his opinion about the erection of an infirmary. "It will fill a long-felt need among students here."

"I'm a little in doubt whether the increase in tuition fee, to cover the expenses of a student infirmary, would meet with approval through the state," said W. J. Learmonth, '12 E, yesterday. "However, it's a fine plan and should have the active support of every Michigan man. We will need more than simply passive approval on the part of students in order to carry it through."
