HARDING SOLICITS AID IN COMBATING UNEMPLOYMENT

ASKS GOVERNORS AND MAYORS TO START MACHINERY WORKING

SAYS CO-OPERATION IS NECESSARY FOR SUCCESS

Possibilities of Use of Unskilled Workmen Considered as Solution of Crisis

(By Associated Press)

Washington, Oct. 3.—Governors and mayors throughout the country were asked by President Harding in a public statement today to organize in each community machinery for the correction of economic conditions along lines worked out by the unemployment conference here. The conference, the President declared, had demonstrated that conditions could not be met properly without such local co-operation. He announced that a central agency would be maintained here under auspices of the conference to give national co-ordination to the rehabilitation efforts.

Final plans for the central employment agency are practically completed, conference officials say, and Secretary Hoover is to make an announcement tomorrow outlining the character of the organization. Col. Arthur Woods, former police commissioner, is understood to be under consideration for appointment as head of the agency.

Possibilities of reducing the number of the nation's unemployed through use of unskilled workmen in the construction of new highways and in the maintenance of roads already built was discussed at a meeting here today of the executive committee of the National Association of State Highway officials.

NEW MIMES THEATER NEARING COMPLETION

WILL BE READY FOR OPERA REHEARSALS THE LAST OF THE WEEK

Work on the new Mimes campus theater is rapidly nearing completion. The building will be ready for the cast and dance rehearsals of the Union Opera tryouts which will be held the latter part of this week.

The task of tilting the main floor on a slope with the orchestra pit has been completed. A margin about 15 feet wide has been left along either side of the main floor on a level with the stage, where seats are to be placed on an angle facing the stage. Part of the space, however, will be left open as passageway to the exit.

Partitions have been arranged in the basement so as to afford five spacious dressing rooms and a washroom. Details involving the electrical work in the building are to be arranged today and this work will be hurried to completion, as lighting facilities are necessary before rehearsals can commence.

It has been decided that only feature movies will be shown and they are to be the best that can be obtained, according to E. Mortimer Shuter, director of Union dramatics.

FRESHMEN WOMEN GUESTS AT DINNER

Three hundred freshman women were entertained last night at the Junior Advisers' supper in Barbour gymnasium. The supper followed Dean Myra B. Jordan's tea for women of the class of '25 and the election of a freshman social committee for the Women's league.

After the supper the juniors presented a program composed of original stunts, songs and dances. Short talks concerning the purposes of the Junior Advisers' work, the Women's league, the Y. W. C. A., and the

Excitement, Sadness And Gladness Reign At Zenith Of Sorority Rushing

Sisters, it is over.

Gridiron dope and studies took a back seat while the various sororities received their sisters-to-be from 2 to 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Supreme suspense filled many tender hearts as the hour of 3 sounded from the campus clock. An ominous quiet, the only sign of life was themysterious agitation of door and window curtains, undoubtedly caused by the sisters struggling for a place of vantage.

Taxi!

A taxi turns the corner. The curtains move violently, and then are still. The car swings up the drive and the rushee alights. Instantly a scream of exultation breaks the slumber of peaceful Ann Arbor, and from the door bursts an avalanche of feminine humanity, each eager to be the first to bestow a sisterly kiss upon the excited rushee. Then follows much kissing, hugging, clutching, and rejoicing, and the forlorn man student realizes how sad it is that he can only be an onlooker.

The same scene is repeated at each house upon the arrival of each rushee, until the final haul is made.

Men Try

Though barred from participation in the lively scenes, the men did their best to make the occasion a success. Some gathered on roofs to give lusty cheers when a prospect was seen approaching. Others of a more musical turn organized a band, and a third party secured a large bell to sound alarms for the occasion.

It is reported that at one house a rushee was rejected because her hat fell off and her hair was cut like a man's, and besides she was suspiciously immodest about pulling up her stockings before the public gaze.

Sisters, the yearly gamble is over. If you won, rejoice; if you lost, weep in silence and remember there is another year coming.

ATTENDANCE PROMISING FOR PRESS CLUB CONVENTION HERE OCT. 20-22

President Burton, Lee A. White, Prof. F. N. Scott Included Among the Speakers

EDITORS TO BE GUESTS AT OHIO STATE CONTEST

Already many editors throughout the state have signified their intention of attending the annual meeting of the University Press club of Michigan, which will be held here Oct. 20, 21, and 22. Acceptance to the invitations sent out recently are being received daily, according to Prof. John R. Brumm, of the department of rhetoric and journalism, and secretary of the Press club, who estimated that fully 150 editors will be in attendance at the convention.

The program for the meeting has been arranged in detail, and will include discussions of technical newspaper problems, addresses by both editors and faculty members, and entertainment.

Registration First

The morning of the first day, Thursday, Oct. 20, will be devoted to registration. The first general session that afternoon will be opened by an address of welcome from President Marion L. Burton, and will be followed by an address on "Training for Journalism," by Lee A. White, of the Detroit News. Prof. F. N. Scott, head of the department of rhetoric and journalism, will give an outline of what the University attempts to teach the prospective journalist, and this will be followed by a general discussion of "Is the Educational Program Adequate?"

Yost to Talk

The afternoon meeting will be followed by an informal dinner at which Coach Fielding H. Yost will talk. In the evening entertainment will be provided at the Choral Union series concert in Hill auditorium. Following this a smoker is to be given at the Union by the journalism students of the University.

Friday will be devoted to presentation of newspaper problems.

The annual dinner of the Press club will be held Friday at the Union. President Burton will give the address of the evening.

Saturday morning the convention will hold its business meeting at which will occur the election of officers. During the afternoon the editors will be guests at the Ohio State football game.

At the present time the organization is headed by E. J. Ottaway, editor of the Port Huron Times-Herald.

It has been suggested that during the Thursday and Friday nights of the convention the editors be entertained in fraternity houses. This, it was pointed out by those who are arranging the housing of the men while they are here would do much to give the editors an insight into true college life and make them acquainted with the modern student, of whom many have false conceptions.

Living Lonely Life On Tropic Isle, Modern Crusoe Found By Hobbs

In the modern world of today there comes to our ears the tale of a man whose trials have far exceeded those of the mythical Robinson Crusoe, a man who has literally out-Crusoed Crusoe. Capt. Leander West was shipwrecked 20 years ago on Kusai island, one of the Caroline group, and since that time has been living there dependent on the whims and fancies of a strange savage chief.

But more than this, supose that a ship had passed within hailing distance of the island and had replied to your most desperate entreaties and signals with only a laugh of scorn. This was the fate of our second Robinson Crusoe, not once, but five times a year until giving up hope he lapsed into despondency and became inflicted with paralysis.

Briefly, that is the fate of the man found by Prof. William H. Hobbs of the geology department while on his 12 months tour of investigation in the South seas. West will probably have to stay there forever unless Professor Hobbs is successful in prevailing upon the government officials to send aid.

START GLEE CLUB TRY-OUTS TODAY

Frank L. Thomas, director of the University Glee and Mandolin clubs for the year 1921-1922, has announced plans for the coming year. Tryouts for the Varsity Glee club will take place at 7 o'clock today and tomorrow in room 208 at the Union and applicants for the position of accompanist are asked to report to Mr. Thomas at his studio in the School of Music.

Mr. Thomas plans to make this year's Glee club a University organization and not merely a Michigan Union organization as it was last year. Arrangements are now being made for the Glee club to sing during the Ann Arbor programs of Michigan

CHANGES PLANNED BY RADIO STATION

Room to Be Changed, New Equipment Scheduled, Extensive Alterations Assured

FRANKLIN D. JOHNSTON, '22E, CHOSEN AS CHIEF OPERATOR

In order that the University radio station may be equipped to handle radio news under the new-organized Western Conference Radio News service, plans are now being formulated for the making of rather extensive alterations in the equipment and installation of old experimental station "8XA".

Franklin D. Johnston, '22E, has been chosen to take charge of the re-arrangement and to act thereafter as chief operator.

It is understood to be the intention of those in charge, however, to move the radio room itself to another part of the engineering building. The present location is in room 103, but it is possible that the new installation may be placed in the sub-basement at the extreme north end of the building.

New Equipment Planned

It is also planned to install as much new equipment as possible, this perhaps to include a continuous wave transmitter, although the old spark sending set will still be used for general work.

An application has gone in to Washington asking for a renewal of the old provisional special amateur license, and for a return of the call letters "8XA", with which this station has so long been identified. This license expired sometime last spring, and, during the recent tests of the Western Conference Radio News service, the equipment has been operated under the direction of the signal corps, the signal corps call, "WUS", being used.

Prof. Cannon Approves

Prof. Joseph H. Cannon, of the electrical engineering department, has expressed his enthusiasm in regard to the prospective news service now being developed, and has stated emphatically that any reasonable demands made for the betterment of local conditions would be supported by his department. He, together with Prof. John C. Parker and Prof. Ward F. Davidson, both of the electrical engineering department, has indicated that the radio station would be opened freely to the handling of such projects as the present, in which efforts would be made to use the equipment for a real purpose.

Additional tests for the establishment of a working system to be conducted earlier in the evenings than heretofore, were conducted Saturday night and last night between the various Big Ten universities, and it is hoped that the service may be put under way for dependable use at the time of the more important football games of the fall.

Wisconsin Gets Appointment

In connection with the changes made in the scheme of communications, bulletins recently sent out by the local office of the Western Conference Radio News service announced at least the temporary appointment of the University of Wisconsin station, "9XM", to the position of central station to succeed "9ZN", of Chicago. The change was made because of the fact that local regulations prevent the operation of "9ZN" before 10:30 o'clock, central time. That station, however, will continue to handle the service for the benefit of the Daily Northwestern and the Daily Maroon, of Northwestern university and the University of Chicago, respectively.

"Foraker's Folly" New Titus Serial

Harold Titus, ex-'11, has recently completed a new book under the title of "Foraker's Folly", which is to run as a serial in Everybody's magazine beginning with the November issue. The plot, which centers around the careless destruction of our American forests, was inspired by the author's indignation at seeing his boyhood playground destroyed. The central idea is a comparatively novel one, and the character delineation is extremely well executed.

During the year 1917 Mr. Titus delivered a series of lectures on magazine writing at the University. In addition to contributing widely for magazines, he is the author of "I Conquered," "Bruce of the Circle A," and "The Last Straw."

While at Michigan Mr. Titus was an Editor of The Daily and was connected with several other student publications.

SOPH COMMITTEE HAS NEW SYSTEM

Investigation System Established to Check Up on Traditions Violaters

RECORDS OF FIRST YEAR MEN TAKEN INTO CONSIDERATION

It was decided at the first meeting of this year's undercoss conduct committee to try out several new ideas in order to facilitate the work of the members.

One of the plans is the formation of a sub-committee composed of five men which will be known as the investigation committee. It will be the duty of this committee to look up the records, or as much as can be found of them, of all men reported to the committee for violations of conduct or traditions. If the offender is a sophomore his record as a freshman will be taken into consideration. If he is a first semester freshman his record before he came to the University will be carefully looked over.

It is expected that this system will, to a certain extent, eliminate the danger of punishment being meted out to men who have merely been offenders unknowingly. It is not the plan of the committee, however, to allow itself to become unduly lenient. When a case has been proven the usual punishment will be meted out.

The committee also asks that when reporting a man the name and address of both the offender and accuser be given.

The following names and addresses are given in order that committeemen may be quickly located: S. Muirhead, '24, 628 State street, Phone 231; J. Sterling, '24, 507 South State street, Phone 131; A. B. McWood, '24, 1315 Hill street, Phone 1469; H. Hubbard, '24, 829 East Kingsley street, Phone 566; N. Ross, '24, 1511 Washtenaw avenue, Phone 1399; Ed. Murnane, '24, 1003 East Huron street.

UNION SEEKS ROOM LIST FOR WEEK END OF OCT. 22

COMMITTEE ASKS LANDLADIES FOR DATA REGARDING VACANT ROOMS

In order to accommodate the great number of people who expect to be in Ann Arbor the week-end of the Ohio State game, the Union is seeking the co-operation of local landladies who have vacant rooms to rent. Every available room at the Union has been reserved for the past three days and officials are anxious that those unable to be accommodated there, be informed as to other rooms in town available for the week-end of Oct. 22.

Any landlady wishing to rent rooms for this date is requested to send in to the Ohio State rooming committee of the Union her name, address and the number and price of rooms she has for rent. A file will be kept at the

NEW YORK HOTELS JAMMED WITH FANS

Giant's Headquarters Talk Centered on McGraw's Initial Pitching Selection

(By Associated Press)

New York, Oct. 3.—New York tam plunged into a sea of baseball argument today and at the same time divided themselves for a rooters war when the Yankees and Giants meet in World Series combat at the Polo grounds Wednesday at noon.

Meanwhile the officers of opposing clubs were making final separation preparations for the post-season classic. At the Giants' headquarters all the tickets had been reserved, it was announced, and their talk centered about McGraw's pitching selection for the opening game.

Yankee headquarters were filled with baseball players and the last minute ticket seekers.

Fans from all parts of the country are pouring into the city and hotel managers are counting on filling their accommodations. The seating capacity of the Polo grounds is given as 35,000, but ambitious ushers have been able to find seats in the aisles and on the rail for at least 3,000 more and there is standing room for many more.

The record attendance at a series is 236,000. It undoubtedly will be broken if the series goes to six or more games.

CHORAL UNION STARTS REHEARSING TONIGHT

LARGE NUMBER OF CANDIDATES WITH GOOD VOICES HAVE TURNED OUT

Plans to begin the work of the University Choral Union at a rehearsal at 7 o'clock tonight at the School of Music have been completed by Prof. Earl V. Moore, acting conductor of the chorus. "If appearances at tryouts can be said to show the year's prospects, the season will be an exceptional one," said Professor Moore.

An unusually large number of candidates have presented themselves and many of them have good voices. All former members who desire to hold their membership should report at tonight's rehearsal as well as all who have tried out for the chorus the first time this fall. Final seating arrangements will be made during the week following the rehearsal and definite places assigned.

Additional tryouts will be held at 4 o'clock today at the School of Music.

WILLIAM H. FORTE, UNIVERSITY NIGHT WATCHMAN, DIES SUNDAY

William H. Forte, night watchman on the campus, died Sunday in a local hospital after an illness of several months which was caused by an operation for appendicitis. Mr. Forte had been in the employ of the University for more than six years.

Mr. Forte resided at 1106 Oakland avenue, where the funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock today, with the Rev. A. W. Stalker officiating. He is survived by his widow, and two daughters, Mrs. Wallace C. Hall of Highland Park and Miss Greta Hall, a teacher in Ypsilanti.
