GLASPIE BILL PERMITS D.U.R. TO RAISE RATES

Detroit United Railway rates will be increased one-half cent a mile on Jan. 30, according to an announcement made by the company last night in view of the earnings of the past year. The Glaspie bill permits the company to charge two cents a mile if the annual earnings are less than $14,000 a mile. Last year they were about $12,000 a mile, and, accordingly, the rates are automatically increased.

The maximum rate is only temporary, and will remain in effect only until the public utilities commission of Detroit fixes a permanent rate.

Concerning Some Price Reduction

There has been a lot of discussion recently as to whether prices are being reduced in retail stores as fast as they should be to conform with the lower costs of raw materials, and, in some cases, the retailer is being referred to as a "profiteer." This, we believe, is not in accord with the facts for in most cases competition compels the retailer to keep his prices as low as possible or otherwise he loses his business. Some prices remain higher than they should but they are probably due to the inability of the manufacturer or producer to reduce the cost of production.

In our case we have made it a rule to reduce our prices as fast as the manufacturers' prices are reduced, regardless of any stock we may have on hand, and the result is that up to date most lines are priced quite a little under last year's prices and in most cases where prices have not been changed, the present prices are not much in advance of pre-war levels.

The following list will give you some idea of the number of items covered by the price reductions. Enamel ware, Aluminum ware, Electric Goods, Paints and Brushes, Builders' Hardware, Machinists' Tools, Carpenters' Tools, Cutlery, Skates, Bathroom Fixtures.
