OHIO STATE UNIV.

Columbia Daily Spectator, Volume XLIX, Number 22, 17 October 1925

UP AGAINST STRONG DEFENSE
AME WITH OHIO STATE TODAY;
MS CONCEDED EQUAL CHANCE

AVE WON TWO

yed 3 to 3 Tie
and Defeated Wesleyan.

JENKINS ARE ING THREATS

nts Have Triple
and Speedy in Marek.

otball team should Columbia eleven fa
an offense of any power or a really

am cannot boast of ade in the way of fense. Their main n Marek, who wears erican halfback, as
are concerned, and
matter of field goals
defense of the first game last Saturday
the Lion backs distance.

"Grid Graph" to Show Game In McMillin Theatre at 2:30

The Ohio State Game will be shown play by play by the "Grid Graph" in the McMillin Theatre this afternoon, beginning at 2:30. A minute by minute description of the game will be flashed by Western Union from the sidelines direct to the operator of the "graph".

The plays are shown on the "graph" by an electric bulb which takes positions corresponding to the actual movements of the pigskin on the gridiron. Difficult plays are explained in detail by the operator of the "graph". An admission fee of $1 will be charged for this game.

WEST POINT FACES
NOTRE DAME TODAY

Cadets Meet Strong Opponents at Yankee Stadium While Syracuse Battles Indiana.

FIRST TEST FOR COLUMBIA

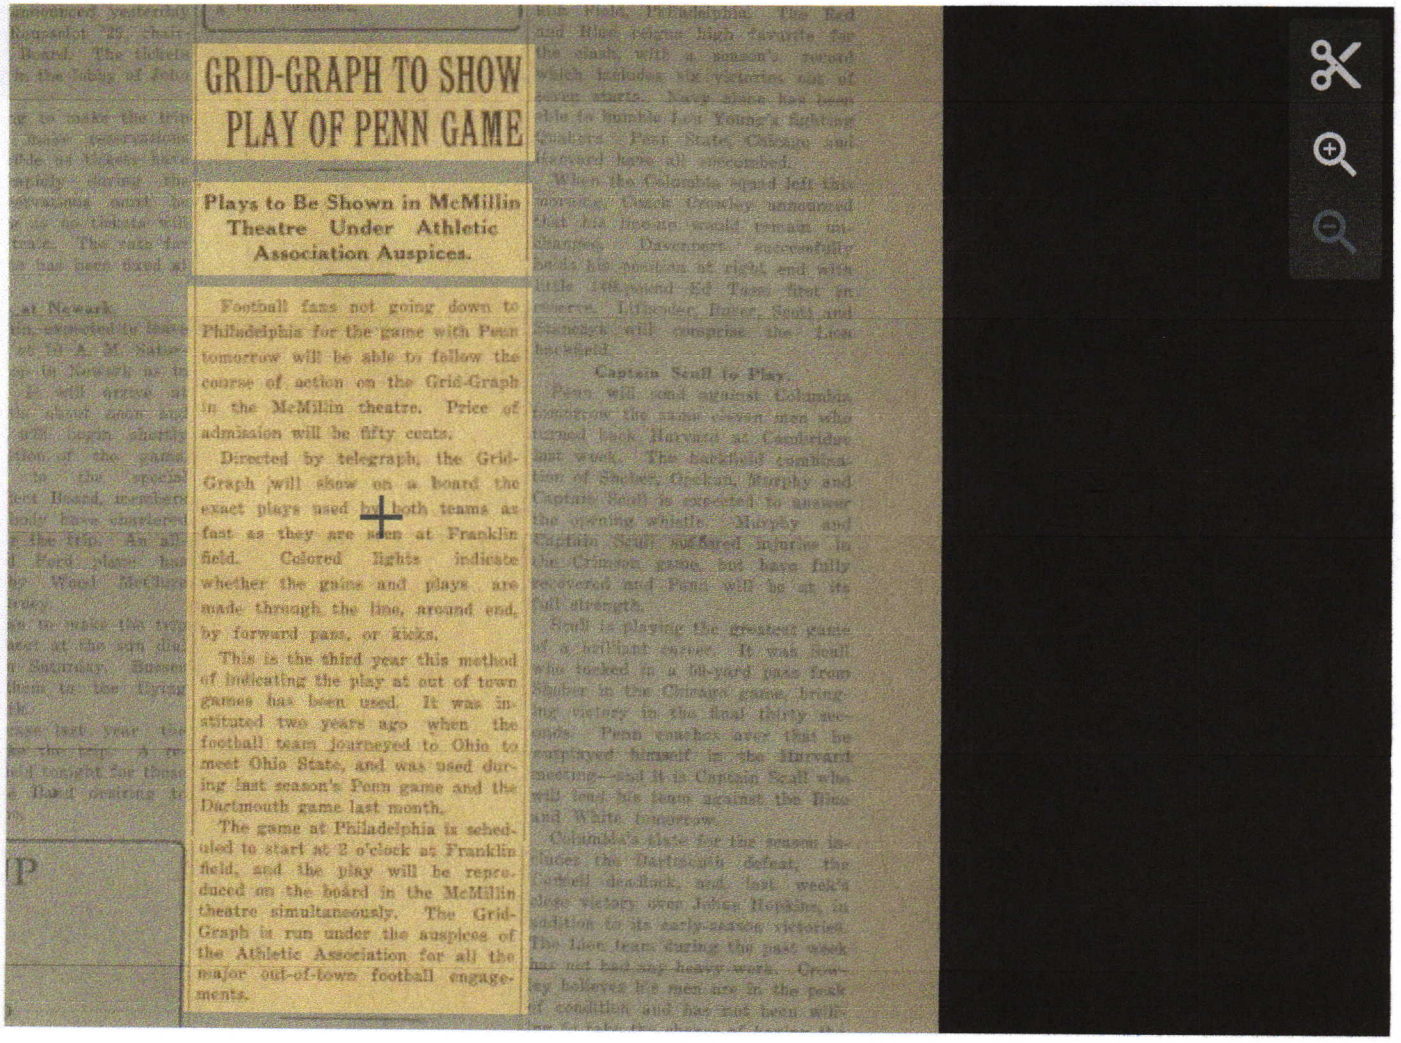

Lion Expects Bitter Struggle —Crowley Will Have Entire Squad At Hand.

COLUMBIA WORKS OUT IN RAIN ON OHIO FIELD

Weather Reported Cooler With Increasingly Strong North-western Winds.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 16.—It was raining when Columbia's Varsity football squad went through its final practice before tomorrow's contest with Ohio State there this afternoon. The brief session was held on the Ohio Stadium field, the scene of tomorrow's conflict, behind locked gates. It consisted of a short but comprehensive signal drill and a workout for the kickers with the wet ball. The Ohio eleven practiced later in the afternoon.

The Columbia squad of fifty-eight, forty-three of whom were players, arrived here at 9:45 this morning and went immediately to the Colum-

GRID-GRAPH TO SHOW PLAY OF PENN GAME

Plays to Be Shown in McMillin Theatre Under Athletic Association Auspices.

Football fans not going down to Philadelphia for the game with Penn tomorrow will be able to follow the course of action on the Grid-Graph in the McMillin theatre. Price of admission will be fifty cents.

Directed by telegraph, the Grid-Graph will show on a board the exact plays used by both teams as fast as they are seen at Franklin field. Colored lights indicate whether the gains and plays are made through the line, around end, by forward pass, or kicks.

This is the third year this method of indicating the play at out of town games has been used. It was instituted two years ago when the football team journeyed to Ohio to meet Ohio State, and was used during last season's Penn game and the Dartmouth game last month.

The game at Philadelphia is scheduled to start at 2 o'clock at Franklin field, and the play will be reproduced on the board in the McMillin theatre simultaneously. The Grid-Graph is run under the auspices of the Athletic Association for all the major out-of-town football engagements.

