CLEAN AS A BREATH OF SPRING

Hi, Lads √√ Gels, Too

WALLY'S BACK √

Just was the old kid era at the Everthing counter. Had a great summer. Looks like a million. Meet new style since the Prince of Wales.

And sharp! Well, Everhart! White book of instant notes, classy dues, phone numbers—all up his little sock sleeve.

Stamps on ever and gets him the girl!

Scores, issues, subscriptions, fashions—Everthing is the pencil to woo class. Always ready, but never sharpened. No wheels to wrangle, no clip to jury rig an extra seal or lead-grade starter from the point of that ethel tip.

Any one you like—from the shy little "Tot," for the studio student, to the roomy "Oldest Son." Any color you like—red, mottled, or black in hard rubber barrels, silver or gold, solid as that. Any lead you like—hard, medium silvertage lie, checking or luster duty thickness—and one in all colors.

Any price you like—[illegible] from the new Utility Unit, $2.50 worth-almost-giving at $1.00.

Rightchoo, see, wow-marvelous. Trigger-lic ous on every surface and we might say the best one in the world. Wahl Pen.

Tell you why you'll like a Wahl Pen better than any other.

It's durable. Built to last. You won't be wasting it every other day or running in to replace it every now and then. All the Wahl—barrel, cap and point—is durable.

It's capable. A great price and a steady flow. The Wahl Pen nib is made of iridium-tipped solid gold. The feed on a Wahl Pen holds more ink than you can get in any pen of equal size—and even when the bottle's gone that nib will draw ingenue in their tracks.

It's individual. You make your own choice of a Wahl Pen from a complete line of sizes, points and styles. You can get a regular for mannish hands, a semi-slim or a semi-little opposite, also an ogel. You can get a Wahl in solid gold or sterling silver, gold-filled or silver-filled, with black, or mottled rubber. You can get exactly the point you want—stiff as flexible for everyday, work, or oblique, or Wahl Standard signature.

And any Wahl you buy is the finest writing instrument you ever used, at any price.
