Ann Arbor

Here Is Today's News In Summary

Apparently they can do anything in Yale . . . with only a crew cut and a pipe. The story reached here last night that 18-year-old Rex Heidemann, a Yale freshman, bagged a deer with his bow and arrow this week.

* * * *

If there are going to be Christmas decorations on Ann Arbor streets, the merchants are evidently going to have to pay for them alone. The city council budget committee last night denied the merchants' request for funds.

* * * *

Emmett M. Gibb is being held in custody today . . . awaiting the time when he will be taken to Jackson prison to begin serving the five-year sentence imposed on him yesterday. Meanwhile his counsel insists that they will appeal the case to the Supreme Court of Michigan . . . because of alleged errors in the trial procedure.

* * * *

More than 150 members of the Ladies Arbeiter society Tuesday night celebrated the 25th anniversary of their organization.

* * * *

The University's expert on neutrality . . . Prof. Lawrence Preuss of the political science department . . . spoke to a group of alumni at Pemdale last night.

* * * *

Greeks of the city are planning a charity ball . . . to be held Nov. 22 in the St. Nicholas church. It is being sponsored by the Ahepa lodge.

* * * *

Coach Charley Bachman of Michigan State College will be the principal speaker at the annual University club banquet here Nov. 28. Athletes of Ann Arbor's high schools will be the guests.

Social Security Topic Of Meet

Films Will Demonstrate Provisions Of Act

Provisions of the social security act under which the payment of benefits will be started next year will be explained at a meeting to be held at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Ann Arbor High School Auditorium, according to Richard H. Hendrick, manager of the Social Security Board's Jackson regional office.

Carl H. Stuhrberg, Ann Arbor lawyer, will serve as chairman of the open meeting, at which films demonstrating the provisions under the act for payment of benefits to wage earners over 65, their wives and widows and wives of covered workers will be shown.

All persons with questions as to proper procedure will be answered. Another feature of the meeting will be a brief address by P. D. Fahnestock, Cleveland regional representative of the Board's bureau of informational service.

Sociedad Hispanica Presents 'Fiesta'

Emphasizing various elements of Spanish culture, La Sociedad Hispanica presented its annual "Fiesta" last night in the Lydia Mendelssohn Theatre, before a crowd of more than 300 people.

Prof. Charles Wagner of the romance language department, spoke on "Spain and Spanish," telling of his experiences in that country, and of the growing prominence of the teaching of Spanish in American schools. A short travel movie on "Picturesque Guatemala" was shown.

The musical program consisted of guitar solos by Don Jose Rodrigues, of Cadiz, Spain; a demonstration of Spanish folk dancing with castanets by the Delgado couple, and several vocal numbers.

WPA Librarians Assisting In Drive During Book Week

National Book Week, which is being observed this week, will find WPA libraries and library workers throughout the country assisting in the drive to gain wider popular interest in reading and library services, according to Abner Larned, State WPA administrator.

WPA participation in library work is nation wide in scope and extends in such diverse forms as the "pack-horse" libraries maintained in some remote regions as the Kentucky mountains, to the intricacies of cataloguing technical treatises for the Library of Congress. Library projects have furnished employment for thousands of white collar workers from local relief rolls.

The principal objective of WPA library projects is to extend the usefulness of libraries already established by making books and other library services more easily available to the public. In some cases where public funds have been inadequate to set up libraries, the WPA, in many instances has established libraries itself.

New U Of M Club Will Begin Career

The 146th chartered University of Michigan Club will begin its career tonight when the club at Portland, Me., holds its first meeting.

The last group to be chartered was the University of Michigan Club of Binghampton, N.Y., which held its organizational meeting two weeks ago.

More than 20 organized alumni exist in all parts of the world. Some of these, however, are not formally chartered.

RADIO

By June McKee

Originally "Mike" and cohorts carried on in even other quarters than old University Hall . . . Room 103 of the Engineering Building here housed radio's first experimental station, "EXA." In the newly organized Western Conference Radio News Service, it handled work under the signal corps call "WDA."

Then "The Michigan Technic" gave up Room 109 for wiring and radio . . . Next the local signal corps unit of ROTC rent a Detroit Symphony Orchestra Concert over wireless telephone, and radiophone station WCBC developed. Though comparatively small in size and built primarily as laboratory equipment, it reached "the most distant states in the Union," promising to be one of the most important and active college stations in the country." At the time though, lack of funds prevented improving and strengthening its apparatus.

Our non-departmental Broadcasting Service presents to perspective students a cross-section of courses offered here. Of the faculty members now on campus, 450 have spoken before "Mike," touching on nearly all types of instruction.

Cartoons On Display In Rackham Building

An exhibit of more than 100 cartoons is now on display in the West End Exhibit Room of the Rackham Building, and can be seen until Nov. 21.

Put on by several New York artists and sponsored by the Ann Arbor Art Association, the exhibit features original cartoons from Esquire, Life, Colliers, New Yorker, and various newspapers. The exhibit will be open daily from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

DAILY OFFICIAL BULLETIN

(Continued from Page 4)

League of Nations, will lecture on "The British Commonwealth and Its International Relations," under the auspices of the Department of Economics, at 4:15 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 17, in the Rackham Lecture Hall. The public is cordially invited.

Dr. Nelson Glueck of Jerusalem will lecture in the Rackham Auditorium today at 4:15 p.m. Subject: "Archaeology Today." The public is cordially invited.

Today's Events

The Observatory Journal Club will meet today at 4:15 p.m. in the Observatory lecture room. Mr. H.R.J. Grosch will continue this discussion on Recent Progress in the Study of Eclipsing Binaries." Tea will be served at 4 p.m.

Student Senate meeting tonight in the Michigan Union at 7:30. Agenda consists of organization of activities for the year.

Cercle Francais meeting tonight at 7:30 in 408 R.L. Professor Koella will speak on his experiences in Europe.

University Girls' Glee Club: Rehearsal tonight at 7:15 in Game Room of League.

Women's Archery Club meeting at 4:15 p.m. on Palmer Field followed by a supper at the Women's Athletic Building.

Decorations Committee, Panhellenic Ball, will meet today at 4 p.m. in the League.

Assembly Council meeting today at 4:15 p.m. instead of Tuesday as previously announced.

Tau Beta Pi: Fall initiation and banquet today. Initiation at 5:20 p.m. and banquet at 6:30 p.m. All initiates report to Michigan Union at 5:15 p.m.

Geological Journal Club will meet in Room 3065, Natural Science Building at 7:30 tonight.

Ballet Dancers of Sophomore Cabaret meeting at 5 p.m., today in the Game Room of the League.

Sigma Eta Chi:

Supper meeting today at 6. Pledging of one new member at 6:30 and also recognition of patronesses. Members please note change of date and be present at 5:30. Dr. Parr will be the speaker of the evening.

Phi Tau Alpha regular meeting 7:30 tonight at Lane Hall.

Forum: The Thursday Forum of the Student Religious Association will discuss, "Can a Religious Individual Justify the Profit System?" Lane Hall, 7:30 p.m. All interested are invited to attend.

Forestry Club Members: There will be a smoker for all members tonight in Room 319 of the Michigan Union. Professor Bromley will speak.

Michigan Dames:

Homemaking group is meeting tonight at 8 o'clock at Mrs. Lawrence Barden's, 849 Brookwood Place. Examples of handmade Christmas gifts (bring yours along) will be shown, and methods of making them discussed.

Coming Events

The Graduate Outing Club invites all graduate students and faculty members interested in outdoor activities to assemble at the northwest corner of the Rackham Building Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. Choice of a hike to White's Woods near Ann Arbor, bicycling, and ice-skating. If you plan to be present at supper in the Club Room in the Rackham Building, please sign the sheet on the door of the Club Room.

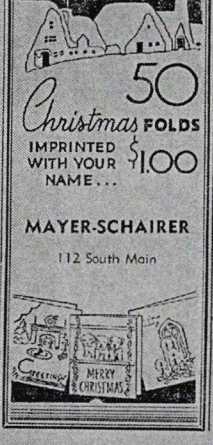

Remember That Girl or Boy at Home. They Would Appreciate a Photograph of You.

The Gift That Only You Can Give!

Rentschler

Studio: 319 East Huron
Opposite The Daily News

Dial 5541
Established 1890

PICTURE NEWS

Spanish Youths Put On Show—To mark Spain's slow return to normal, 5,000 members of Falangist youth organizations held gymnastic drill at Madrid, with Franco as spectator.

Fourth Down . . . So report a grapefruit eater is young Troy Howard that the flying spray of juice doesn't bother him and he takes his fruit "in the raw," at Waverly, Fla. And that's No. 4 on his menu for the day, he declares.

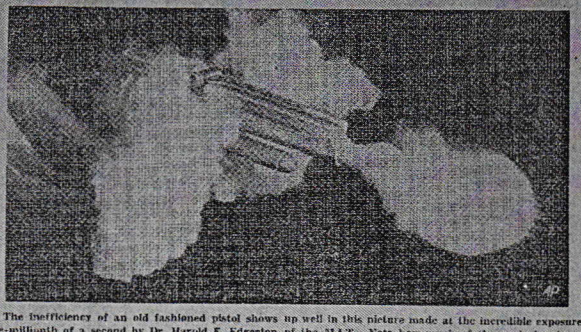

When the fursealers from the Pribilof Islands—Uncle Sam's fur-seal breeding preserve in the Bering Sea—have a holiday, they really enjoy themselves. Note the faces, variety of dress. These sealers with their wives and children live on the Pribilof Islands which are 350 miles north of Unalaska.

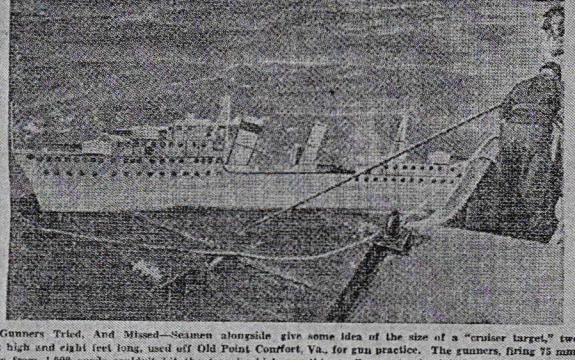

Who'd Blame The Bird?—Contrary to plan, this turkey got loose during a reenactment of the first Thanksgiving at Plymouth, Mass., and Norman Gifford, 12, retrieved the bird. Plymouth will observe the Nov. 30 Thanksgiving.

Houdwinks . . . Grandma never saw a knitted hood like this streamline for 1939 wear. The girl is Marguerite Chapman.

The inefficiency of an old fashioned pistol shows up well in this picture made at the incredible exposure one-millionth of a second by Dr. Harold E. Edgerton of the M.I.T. Note how much of the explosion force escaped from the sides of the gun. The bullet is not the projecting rod shown; it is just emerging and cannot be seen for the smoke.

Gunners Tried, And Missed—Seamen alongside give some idea of the size of a "cruiser target," two feet high and eight feet long, used off Old Point Comfort, Va., for gun practice. The gunners, firing 75 mm. guns from 1,000 yards couldn't hit the target which was this small so as to simulate long-range firing. A mine crew had better luck blasting the "cruiser."

Blow Blow! . . . Icy winds won't nip the fingers of Ann Staunton, pretty ice skater in New York. Her mittens are white angora; earmuffs, lambskin; costume, blue velvet.