Michigan Stars Losing Ground In All-Star Poll

Ted Petoskey Slips Off To Fifth Place As Manske Climbs Ahead

Michigan's stock in the Chicago Tribune All-Star football game took a decided fall over the week-end, with last week's favorites either unseated completely or dangerously near it. Ted Petoskey, the Wolverine star at end, went down under a barrage of votes for Manske of Northwestern and halted in fifth place, only slightly ahead of Ed Devore of Notre Dame.

The Mid-West seems to have furnished the majority in the selections with Northwestern, Notre Dame and Ohio State supporters coming out in full force for their favorites. Buchmen as Manske, Rosequist of Ohio State, Heap of Northwestern, Wunsch of Notre Dame, and Cramer of Ohio State, came into the picture with surprising support, indicating the apparent partisan vote.

Francis Wistert, tackle, held third position in the race, but was somewhat neglected in the 13,000 vote that went to Krause. Chuck Bernard still led the centers by the two thousand majority that has characterized his vote curing the contest.

Beattie Feathers, Tennessee streak, again forged ahead of Herman Everhardus with an increase of some 12,000 votes, some of which were also shared by Cramer of Ohio State in jumping into fourth place. Joe Laws continued the outstanding favorite for quarterback, as did Mike Mikulak of Oregon for fullback. Henry Sauer of Nebraska was given a large "honorary" vote but his illness will keep him definitely out of active participation in the game with the professional Bears on August 31 at Soldiers' Field.

As originally announced, the Daily will send all selections that are received at the Student Publications building by noon today to the Tribune. The voting closes tomorrow at midnight and the Tribune, with its associated papers in the contest, urges all persons interested in the game to send their votes to the All-Star Game Editor, Chicago Tribune before that time.

To date the voting stands as follows:

The Dunklins and two passengers had drank a small quantity of gin shortly previous to the accident, Mr. Dunklin admitted. They were traveling at a high speed when the machine left the pavement. Mrs. Dunklin leaves three small children.

Congdon Talks On Accrediting High Schools

Declares U. Of M. System Was First Of Its Kind To Be Established

what comparable bases," Professor Congdon said, and there are at least two general types of standards which may be established for this purpose. The first type includes standards which are descriptive in rather quantitative and objective terms of the plant, facilities, and teaching staff.

The second type of standards which Professor Congdon mentioned was that which made for stimulation of growth in "progressive educational practices," and this was favored over the first by the speaker.

Other trends in the field of accrediting were listed by Professor Congdon as "more generalized formulations of standards; more evaluation on the basis of the school's particular objectives; and a tendency to judge in terms of the total picture instead of acting on the basis of a single criterion."

Miss Blanche Muxen, research assistant in personnel problems, will speak at 4:10 p.m. today in Room 1022, University High School, on the topic, "Dealing with Personal Problems of High Schools."

This is one of a series of afternoon lectures sponsored by the School of Education and is open to all students in education and any others who may care to attend.

Camp News

CAMP DAVIS

CAMP DAVIS, July 21. — Radiogram to The Daily — Mr. O. W. Owen who was able to scale the Grand Teton in 1898, was a camp visitor yesterday and today. He spoke last night telling earlier attempts to reach the summit, describing his final success 36 years ago.

The new extension of the camp water system will be completed by the end of the week.

The students have decided to visit Yellowstone Park on the first week-end in August. On the intervening week-end they will go to the Great Slide on the Gros Ventre River, the Tetons, and Jenny Lake, and attend a rodeo in Jackson.

The local forest service is building a new telephone line from Jackson to stations along the Hoback River, which is to be connected with the camp. Good weather continues, no frosts during the past week.

Niagara Falls Excursionists Will Make Long Scenic Tour

returned; the moon will be full, and the resulting effect of the light on the rushing water and spray is almost as spectacular and fascinating as the illuminated view.

Saturday morning and the greater part of the afternoon will be consumed in making the scenic trip around the Falls and down the Gorge to Lewiston. The trip is made partly by bus and partly by special trolley cars, and covers both sides of the Gorge. The ticket for the entire trip is $1.50.

The party will start by bus from their hotel, and go up the shore by the rapids just above the Falls to the bridge which crosses over to Goat Island, which is entirely American. The Island, which stands between the two great cataracts, is a New York State Reservation, and affords some excellent views of the Falls. The bus will drive around the shore of the Island, passing by the Three Sister Islands, a chain of three tiny islets extending far out into the rapids of the Canadian Falls, connected by strong bridges. If there is sufficient demand the party will stop here and walk out to the last of the islands to where the waters first start to form.

The buses will also pass Terrapin point at the very edge of the Canadian Falls. This section, more properly called the Horseshoe Falls, as the International Boundary passes through the center, has a span of 3,010 feet as compared to the 1,060-foot length of the American Falls, and carries almost 95 per cent of the one and a half million gallons that drop over the Falls every second.

The buses will then proceed to Luna Island, where a similar view of the American Falls may be obtained.

Near the bridge to Luna Island is the elevator shaft leading to the Cave of the Winds on the rocks at the base of the Falls. Those of the party who wish to make the descent will don oilskins provided by the concession there, and go out on the spray-dashed platforms from which an examination of the rocks that carry off the water falling from the gap between Luna Island and Goat Island may be made.

The stream falls on the rocks behind the sightseers, and washes past them to join the main cataracts in the pool. At the far end of the platforms the party will be almost directly behind and under the main falling body of water.

They will then return to the mainland, and to the foot of the Peace Bridge for the trip along the Canadian side of the Gorge.
