and Imaginary Voyages including "Robinson Crusoe" and "Gulliver's Travels" in many editions and translations. There are also found in the Rare Book Rooms the Pilcher and Crummer Collections illustrating the History of Medicine and Surgery, as well as numerous other rare and valuable works and a considerable collection of manuscript material particularly connected with the University and with the State.

In addition, the University owns one of the most important collections in the world of papyri from Egypt, chiefly in the Greek language, but with a considerable number of Coptic and Arabic documents. These number over 10,000 items.

The Library maintains its own Bindery in the main building.

There has been in existence for twenty years a Library Extension Service in active relations with schools, clubs, granges, and other organizations throughout Michigan, as well as with alumni of the University in all parts of the country. The Extension Service maintains an extensive circulating collection of pamphlets on public questions of the day and does much bibliographic work in furnishing lists of suitable books to schools, colleges, clubs, and individuals. The University does not maintain a circulating collection of books available throughout the State.

Special facilities are given to research workers by means of tables in the stacks in the General Library and by specialized services maintained by the Library. Every effort is made to gather printed and manuscript materials for research.

The University maintains a Department of Library Science in which a small number of highly selected students are given training in librarianship. Only college graduates of exceptional scholarship are admitted. The degree of Bachelor of Arts in Library Science is conferred at the end of one year of study, and the degree of Master of Arts in Library Science at the end of two years.

The Library has some endowments in the form of trust funds, the income from which is used for the purchase of books. The largest of these Funds is the Silas Wright Dunning, followed by the Octavia W. Bates Fund, the Ford-Messer Fund, and the Coyl Fund.

The Union—Center Of All Men's Activities

MICHIGAN UNION BUILDING

The Union headquarters for men's activities on campus serves in a number of capacities. It is the location of organizations' meetings, a recreational center and supplies rooms for visiting alumni and campus visitors.

Summer Session Costs To Be Low, Enabling Many To Attend

as follows: Biological Station, $44; Camp Davis, $42; Geology Field Courses, $42, and the Forestry Camp, $50.

These fees will apply regardless of the number of courses taken and will include laboratory fees except in the Chemistry Laboratory, and cash deposits are also required in the laboratories of hygiene, pharmacy and bacteriology.

Students who enroll for courses in the session that continue for four weeks or more will be entitled to the privileges of the Michigan Union or the Michigan League, the Health Service and to free copies of The Summer Michigan Daily. The extension of these privileges with the payment of the tuition requirements will undoubtedly effect a great saving in the living expenses, for numerous services are offered by these branches of the University.

The cost of board varies greatly in Ann Arbor, ranging from as low as $3.50 to more than $7.50. However, the average cost of board in Ann Arbor approximates $5 and meal tickets are available at a number of restaurants which will lessen this amount.

Rooming facilities for women will be offered by the dormitories and sororities where the average cost is $4 a week. All women students not registered in the Graduate School will be required to live in residences approved by the Dean of Women. A list of residences other than dormitories will be mailed upon request to the Office of the Dean of Women.

For men suitable quarters may be obtained in rooming houses for the following prices: Single rooms, $2 to $5 a week; double room or suite for two persons, $2.50 to $4 a person.

To cut down further the cost of attending the Summer Session, a concession of one and one-third fare for the round trip is being offered by many of the railroads to Summer Session students and professors. However, all certificates must be endorsed by Prof. Louis A. Hopkins, director of the Summer Session, to be valid. When coming to Ann Arbor, students and professors must ask for the Plan Certificate from the ticket agent and purchase it at the regular first class fare rate. After it has been validated by Prof. Hopkins, the ticket is to be presented to the ticket agent upon leaving Ann Arbor on any date from June 23 to September 7, inclusive, and it will be honored with the payment of one-third of the one-way fare from Ann Arbor to the original starting point as shown on the certificate via the same route over which the going journey was made.

The certificates to Ann Arbor must be obtained on any of the following dates: June 18 to July 9, inclusive, and July 27 to 31, inclusive. They will not be available at any but these dates.

The University of Detroit plans to dedicate a campus tree to the memory of Joyce Kilmer, war-time poet.

City Of Tents May Be Created Here

Wisconsin "city" is located on the shores of Lake Mendota.

Professor Hopkins has referred it to the department of buildings and grounds and has placed the matter of furnishing a suitable site in the hands of the proper officials in that department.

Offer Courses In Radio Drama, 'Mike' Diction

Broadcasts Over Station WJR Will Be Continued In Summer Session

Four classes which will include instruction in radio readings and dramatics, the broadcasting technique, and radio diction will be conducted by the radio section of the speech department in the coming Summer Session.

Students in these classes will be able to employ the skill developed in the classrooms by broadcasting over Station WJR, Detroit. Two 30-minute programs under the supervision of the University Broadcasting Service will be presented weekly over this station; these will include dramas written by speech students, and talks and interviews of all types, also directed by speech students.

The three University broadcasting studios in Morris Hall are acoustically treated with celotex, an absorbing material which is placed on the walls to prevent reflection of sound. The equipment includes carbon, condenser, crystal, and dynamic microphones, public address system, transmission turntable, Presto sound equipment, and Philco 200-x radio. The broadcasts are carried to Station WJR by leased wire.

The radio reading and dramatics class, given by Prof. Louis Eich and Prof. Waldo Abbot, will consist of studies in radio technique, and practice in presenting readings, original sketches, and adaptations of plays on the radio. The broadcasting technique course taught by Professor Waldo Abbott, director of broadcasting, will present the fundamentals of radio broadcasting covering every department of the broadcasting studio. It is non-technical. It also gives practical experience in announcing and speaking.

The second broadcasting technique course also taught by Professor Abbot consists of an analysis of program types with particular attention to commercial and education programs. Experience in planning and in the construction and presentation of original features is featured. Auditions will be give, and practical experience in announcing and speaking will be available.

The stage and radio diction class, instructed by Prof. G. E. Densmore, aims to improve and enlarge the spoken vocabulary of the student.
