Dr. Schuman Will Interpret War Progress

Hillel, Post War Council Sponsor Sunday Talk, 'The Road To Victory'

Eminent political scientist, interpreter of world events and author, Frederick L. Schuman, professor of government at Williams College, will speak at 8:15 p.m. Sunday at Hebrew Auditorium under the joint auspices of Hillel Foundation and the Post-War Council.

The progress of the war will be analyzed in Dr. Schuman's lecture entitled "The Road to Victory." The mistakes, the triumphs and what they involve for America will be pointed out.

Wide acclaim has been given Dr. Schuman for his sensational prophecies of world-shaking happenings. He forecast the present war in 1933, the partition of Czechoslovakia in 1937.

Traveling extensively in Europe in the last 12 years, Dr. Schuman has observed the operation of the new European governments first hand. He saw the beginning of the Soviet "Five Year Plan" and the Nazi revolution in Germany.

Writing on the governments of Europe and America, Dr. Schuman is recognized as an expert in the field. His latest book is "A Primer of Party Politics."

Planning for post-war construction is a major interest for Dr. Schuman who is widely informed on the League of Nations and Inter-Democracy Federal Union.

His lecture tour has brought him before audiences throughout the country. Last fall Dr. Schuman spoke before a capacity audience in Ann Arbor.

Present holder of the Woodrow Wilson Professorship of Government at Williams College, Dr. Schuman took his doctorate at the University of Chicago. Until 1936 he taught there.

His studies have taken him to universities in England, France, Germany, Italy, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Russia and the Balkans, giving him a wide knowledge of continental thought.

Naval Affairs Club Meets

The Naval Affairs Club will hold its ninth meeting of the semester at 7:30 p.m. today in Room 16 Angell Hall. Under the direction of Edward W. Mill of the naval science department, the discussion will center around "How the United Nations Can Take the Offensive against the Axis Anywhere in the World."

Staffs Of High School Papers To Meet Here

Annual Press Convention Will Convene Friday; Slosson To Speak

Representatives of high school publication staffs from all over the state will meet here Friday and Saturday for the 21st annual Michigan Interscholastic Press Association Convention.

The two-day program, planned by the University's School of Journalism in cooperation with the MIPA, is designed around the theme, "Tomorrow—Whose World?" Prof. Preston Slosson of the history department will address the general assembly at 9:30 a.m. Saturday on this topic.

The purpose of the convention, states Prof. John L. Brumm, chairman of the journalism department, is two-fold—to see that high school students may learn to contribute their full share to the collective leadership of the secondary school press, and so that they may receive instruction and inspiration made available through the collective efforts of the Association members.

With this purpose in mind, the program has been planned to include talks by high school students as well as by men experienced in the field of newspaper work. The general assembly at 10 a.m. Friday, at which President Alexander G. Ruthven and Dr. Charles W. Brashares will give addresses, will be followed by an executive session at 11 a.m. where 10 student speakers will preside. Their talks are to be centered around the topic "High School Publications and the War," and will concern views of individual high school staffs on their editorial policies during the war.

One of the main features of the convention will be a demonstration by R. Ray Baker, special writer of the Booth Syndicate, who will conduct an interview before the general assembly at 2 p.m. Friday. Clinics and round table discussions will follow.

Highlighting the convention will be the annual banquet at 6 p.m. Friday, at which Prof. Herbert O. Crisler, coach of the Michigan football team and director of physical education at the University, will address the students. Coach Clarence Munn will show motion pictures of a football game.

Publication awards will be given at the closing session of the convention at 2 p.m. Saturday. At this time the results of clinic evaluation of individual newspapers will be made public.

Home Democracy Subject Of Speech By Doctor Wieman

Dr. Regina Westcott-Wieman, well-known consulting psychologist, and author, will speak on "Democracy in the Home" at 6:30 p.m. today at a dinner in the First Methodist Church.

Dr. Wieman has published many books and articles, including "The Modern Family" and "Popularity" and is at present the director of the Family - Community Project being conducted under the sponsorship of the Kresge Foundation at Addison.

The project is being organized to develop and provide resources of psychology, science, education, philosophy and religion to help families meet conditions required for the growth of personality in the home and community.

Alston College is the academic center of the project, and the basic work is carried on in the homes of the members, each cooperating family undertaking to develop its own appropriate modes and methods for achieving the greatest good and enjoyment for the group.

Dr. Howard McClusky and Dr. Edward Blakeman of the University and Dean Ernest C. Colwell of the University of Chicago are actively cooperating in this movement.

300 Boys To Receive Four Weeks Of Vacation At Fresh Air Camps

From small beginnings back in 1919 the University Fresh Air Camp has grown through the years into a nationally-known institution, providing 300 boys annually with a four weeks' vacation of fun and character development.

In a meeting on the University campus that first year the idea of a boys' camp was conceived by Lewis C. Reimann, '16, former Wolverine tackle, and Thomas S. Evans, secretary of the Student Christian Association. Two years later, the idea took root with the foundation of the first Fresh Air Camp for underprivileged children.

More than 130 boys enjoyed 10 days at the camp during the first season. Located on Lake Huron outside the city of Port Huron, the camp was composed of a handful of tents. The next year, 1923, the camp was moved to Moon Lake in Livingston County. During this second season 200 boys were sent to the camp, which was run for four periods of ten days each.

In the fall of 1923 Marvin Ives and Harry Earhart, residents of Ann Arbor, contributed $12,000 with which the present site of 100 acres on Patterson Lake was purchased.

Today the Fresh Air Camp is a well-equipped institution with its large central club house, providing facilities for wood and metal working, general offices, buildings for indoor games as well as outdoor recreation grounds.

At the camp 40 trained counselors —University graduate students in education, psychology and sociology— make observations of the maladjusted boys that lead to treatments for correction. In the majority of cases the Fresh Air Camp has been successful in curing delinquents and has received the enthusiastic cooperation of social agencies in this area.

SLA To Hear Dancy Speech

Social Worker To Discuss Racial Discrimination

Discussing the topic, "Racial Discrimination in Defense," John C. Dancy, director of the Detroit Urban League for social service among Negroes, will address the Ann Arbor chapter of the Student League of America at 8 p.m. today in the Union.

Arthur E. Carpenter, '43, secretary of the local organization, announced that portions of Dancy's speech will deal not only with the policy of some private industries prohibiting the employment of Negroes, but also with the discriminatory policy of the U.S. Navy toward this group of people. The proposed mixed Army division of whites and Negroes will be discussed too.

Dancy, who has long been prominent in Michigan social work, has served since 1918 as director of the Urban League which is a Community Fund Agency. During his tenure in Detroit he has lent his best efforts toward advancing the Negro race by improving their social, industrial and economic conditions.

A graduate of Phillips Exeter Academy and the University of Pennsylvania, Dancy is a close student of Negro life and literature. In addition to his directorship he is a member of the Detroit Selective Service system and has served on the Mayor's Unemployment Committee. He has also held the position of secretary of the Industrial Department of the National Urban League and secretary of the Big Brother Movement.

Cities Will Confer On Transportation

LANSING, April 28. —(AP)— With Federal blessing, Michigan authorities planned today to extend to many other cities in the state the so-called Pontiac plan for conserving transportation facilities in the war.

Governor Van Wagoner appointed Maxwell Raiser, executive secretary of the Michigan Safety Commission, as state administrator of the War Transportation Conservation Program, and Halsey promptly called a conference of mayors in Lansing May 11 to study the project.

Invitations went to mayors of Muskegon, Grand Haven, Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, Battle Creek, Lansing, Jackson, Adrian, Ann Arbor, Port Huron, Flint, Saginaw, Bay City, Niles, Benton Harbor, St. Joseph, Detroit, and municipalities which constitute the Detroit metropolitan area.

Halsey said he would present a four point program for conserving transportation facilities and follow through with a four-day school of instruction for the municipal officials who will place it in effect, and offer facilities of his staff to solve individual problems.

Heads Labor Section

Wendell Lund (above), a former director of the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission, was named by President Roosevelt as a member of the War Manpower Commission to represent the new Labor Production Division of the War Production Board.

Hopwood Notes

Edwin G. Burrows, 1940 major Hopwood winner and now program director at WASD, Detroit, writes "James A. Decker (Prairie City, Ill.) is publishing a book of my poems this summer, chiefly 'Guernica' entered in the 1940 competition with new companion poems. Several of these have appeared in small magazines."

Burrows conducts the Book Review radio show at 7:15 p.m. weekly, over WASD.

John Ciardi, awarded the major prize in poetry in 1939 for his collection "Homeward to America," will leave shortly to serve in the U.S. air force. His second volume of verse, now in manuscript form, has just been examined by Prof. Roy W. Cowden, director of the Hopwood Room. Four of Ciardi's poems appeared in a recent number of the "University Review," published by the University of Kansas City.

Two other Hopwood winners have been inducted into the service—John Ragsdale, minor award in poetry, 1940, and Frederick K. Gropper, minor award in essay, 1939.

Of the seven new books in the Hopwood Room library, three are by Hopwood teachers: Robert Hillyer—"Hawk's Nest," "Heaven Came So Near," and "Hill Doctor." The list continues with T. S. Eliot's "Collected Poems," Sigrid Undset's "Return to the Future," Ernest Hicks' "Only One Storm," and Maureen Daly's Intercollegiate Literary Fellowship prize novel, "Seventeenth Summer."

Curtain Rises For French Play Tonight

Frantic Comtesse d'Ennon is keeping her fingers crossed that all will go off as she has so artfully planned.

The scene is the Cercle Francais' annual play, "La Belle Aventure," to be shown at 8:30 p.m. today in Lydia Mendelssohn Theatre, and the Comtesse is really Sally Lees, '43, one of the leading ladies in this year's production.

Scheming to disrupt the wedding, which is to take place in a few minutes, the Comtesse is succeeding in making Helene, the bride-to-be played by Jeanne Crump, '42, look very unhappy, although her fiance Valentin, alias Warner Heumann, '43, is blissfully unaware of any complications. Now we see the cause of the worry as young Andre d'Epinon, portrayed by Earl Russell, '43, suddenly appears unannounced on the scene. From here on in lively action rules the day.

Some good seats still remain, so students of French are urged to obtain theirs as soon as possible, between 10 a.m. and curtain time, 8:30 p.m. today, at the theatre box office. Holders of Cercle Francais season lecture tickets will be given a special price, says Prof. Charles E. Koella of the romance languages department and director of the play.

Various Mediums Used In Radio Work At University Outlet

The University has experimented at Morris Hall with practically every type of broadcasting medium available, according to Prof. Waldo Abbot, Director of Radio.

Short wave was employed to contact the University expedition to Greenland, utilizing the facilities of the department of electrical engineering. Professor Abbot testified.

Programs transcribed at Morris Hall have been heard over station WRUL, Boston, and since January, the radio serial, "Heroes In Medicine," directed by Davis Owen, was recorded for stations in Flint, Michigan, Port Huron and Lansing.

Sarvis Says May Tire Quota Smaller

LANSING, April 28. —(AP)—Arthur H. Sarvis, State Rationing Administrator, announced today that a marked trend towards increased use of recaps and fewer new tires was indicated in Michigan's tire quota for May.

In the future, police, fire department, physicians and similar cars would be permitted new tires only because of the safety factor, Sarvis said. Quotas of passenger tires used by light trucks have been drained, he said, and henceforth light trucks will have to depend on retreads or recaps.

May truck tire quotas are down 39 per cent, totalling 7,850, compared with 12,835. Recaps for trucks, however, have been increased from 11,391 in April to 12,227 in May.

Drama Season Tickets On Sale

Great interest in the 1942 Dramatic Season was evidenced by the record crowd that gathered to buy tickets on sale for the first time yesterday, according to Mrs. Lucille W. Walz, ticket chairman.

Ann Arbor becomes a theatrical focal point when Dramatic Season offerings attract many out-of-town groups annually. Already mail orders for tickets to the five comedies, starring stage and screen stars Paris Pollen Ledgers, Michael Whalen, Madge Evans, Florence Reed and Joss Ferrer, have been received from Detroit, Toledo, Pontiac, Flint, Adrian and Adrian. Despite heavy sales, however, there are still seats in all locations available.

Season tickets may be purchased from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily this week in the Garden Room of the Michigan League. After May 4 season and individual tickets will be placed on sale in the League box office.

Informationless Maps

LANSING, April 28. —(AP)—Michigan road maps, devoid of information which might be valuable to enemy agents, will be issued by the State Highway Department, which last month stopped distribution of winter edition maps at the suggestion of Army officials.
