VACATION WITH PAY:

Vice-Presidency To Be Rest for Alben Barkley

WASHINGTON—(AP)—To Alben W. Barkley, the vice presidency to which he has been elected will be like a four-year vacation with pay.

He has been a hard worker in politics for 43 years. As Senate democratic leader for the past 11 years he has laboriously shepherded the administration programs there. His power was tremendous until the Republicans captured the Senate in 1946.

NOW HE WILL spend his time chiefly in gavel-pounding on the Senate rostrum. He probably will be invited to attend cabinet meetings as most recent vice presidents have — Coolidge, Curtis, Garner, Wallace and Mr. Truman.

There is little else a vice president can do. Like Curtis and Garner, he is likely to exert a strong influence on his former colleagues in the Senate—but it will be through private talks off the floor, not in committees.

A vice president has no constitutional power except to preside over the senate and cast a vote in case of a tie. He doesn't give orders to anybody.

* * *

A VICE PRESIDENT, as one recent incumbent said off the record, is "like a man in a cataleptic fit—he sees all that goes on around him, but he cannot take part in it."

John Adams, our first vice president, who also had been active and powerful in politics, took a dim view of his job.

"My country has in its wisdom contrived for me the most insignificant office that ever the invention of man contrived or his imagination conceived."

Here's a complete list of the vice president's duties and powers:

1. Presiding over the Senate and casting votes in case of a tie.
2. Appointing a few minor senate committees.
3. Attending cabinet meetings.
4. Signing enrolled bills and joint resolutions of congress.
5. Serving as a member of the board of regents of the Smithsonian Institution.
6. Appointing five midshipmen to the Naval Academy and four Senators to the Academy's Board of Regents.
7. Recommending to the President the appointment of two candidates for the Military Academy.

Reserve Officers Will Hear Colonel Lecture

Lt. Col. W. O. Baker will discuss the "Retirement Bill and Activation of Training Units" with the Ann Arbor Reserve Officers Association at 7:30 p.m. today at the American Legion clubhouse.

The meeting is open to all army reserve officers in the community.

Amateur 'U' 'Airmen' Eat, Sleep, Talk Radio

"Do you have to be crazy to be a 'ham'?"

This is the question asked most frequently at meetings of the 'U' Radio Club whose 35 members meet every other Thursday to revel in a maze of wires, tubes, and antennas.

* * *

REQUIREMENTS for a ham, as these amateur radio operators are called, are quite simple according to Albert Forman, '50E.

"You merely have to eat, sleep and talk radio," he explained. "Also required is a license from the FCC," he added hastily.

Only one 50 watt transmitter is now in operation in the club's "ham shack," located in Rm. 1084, East Engineering Bldg.

* * *

BESIDES MAKING "social calls" to hams located in the far corners of the world, the amateur operators broadcast flood warnings and transmit emergency messages.
