Amateur radio operators will soon have their own station on top of the West Quadrangle if a license application is approved by the Federal Communication Commission.

Twenty-three Quadrangle residents, under the direction of Ellsworth B. Holden, Sr., assistant resident advisor, have studied code and theory in their leisure hours since the semester began with the idea of going on the air.

Holden, who already operates a 125 watt phone and 100 watt code station in the Quadrangle, expects under the Class B operating license they are seeking.

No specific plans have been made yet for regular communication with amateur operators in other Universities, he said.

President of the group is Warren Cornelius and secretary-treasurer is Donald Wheat.
